A Special Piece

*As you may open this book you may see a road that will lead you to our good and happy our bad and sad moments in which we have gone through over these past four years. We the class of nineteen-ninety-five have worked long and hard so that you may share our moments too.
It is considered a special treasure for us and we are glad to dedicate this special piece to the ones who were not able to complete their last year with us and with the ones that cared and loved them the most*

"CòCo"

1975-1993

*"In tears we saw you sinking,
and watched you fade away:
Our hearts were almost broken,
we wanted you to stay!
But when we saw you sleeping;
so peaceful, free of pain,
How could we wish you back with us,
to suffer that again?
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you didn't go alone . . .
for part of us went with you,
The Day God took you home.*

Prayfully Submitted,
The Family

A SONG

*A song is a lyrical speech that must be heard.
Sometimes an instrument
not even a word.*

*A song is a feeling
from deep down inside.
It releases the feelings
that you sometimes hide.*

*Sometimes a song is a sign of love.
It can be as pure and beautiful
as a white dove.*

*When the beat of a song gets to your head.
The brain cells are awakened
that once were dead.*

*A love song is a poem
that's all so meek.
Sometimes the beauty of the words can make you weak.*

*So when you listen to a song
listen with your mind.
Because if you miss the meaning you'll be left behind.*

Anna Salamone-Consoli
Principal

Paul Stringer
Executive Vice Principal

Dear Class of 1995

You will soon come to a major crossroad in your lives. The one road you have travelled for the past twelve years, that of your education will come to an end. You will be faced with many new intersections, so many new possibilities. Some of you may choose to pursue a post-high school education, others may choose employment, while others may choose military or family obligations. Some of you may need more time and more exploration before deciding. No matter what your choices will be, you will find yourselves at a major transition in your lives. This transition will see the closing of one chapter in your lives and the beginning of brand new one.

As with all transitions, you will experience a sense of loss, loss of that which is familiar, comfortable and secure. You will experience a sadness for your loss of friendships which have sustained you and provided you with many hours of fun and love. You will be sad to leave the school which you have called your home for the past four years, the staff that has nurtured, prodded and challenged you to develop and grow. This transition, however, besides a sense of a new beginning, provides the sense of preparedness to confront the next chapter in your lives.

The new chapter will be whatever you want it to be. You hold in your hands, hearts, and minds the infinite possibilities of the future. You are ready, and you must be willing to step forward and embark in your new journey. Remember always that you are loved by your Bulkeley family. Allow that love to sustain you through difficult times. Do not forget to be of service to those who need your help and to let this world be a better place because you have been a part of it. As painful as life may be, always choose to live it to the fullest and cherish the little things that bring you pleasure. Make your decisions based on sound information and with a sense of who you are. Let self-destruction never be an option. You are loved! - now, we wish you well as we release you to the future.

Love,

Anna Salamone-Consoli

My sincere congratulations go out to the Class of 1995. You have reached an important milestone in your lives-one that will forever be etched in your memories. However, your journey is not over; in many ways it is just beginning.

Wherever it is that your journey leads you, I hope that your efforts are at least equal to that which allowed you to graduate from high school.

Be realistic about the goals that you set. Don't underestimate your abilities by setting them too low and don't frustrate yourself by not setting ones that may seem impossible.

I believe that everyone has a "niche" which will benefit society in some way. All you have to do is find your special "niche" and in doing so, you'll also become an integral part of society in particular and mankind in general.

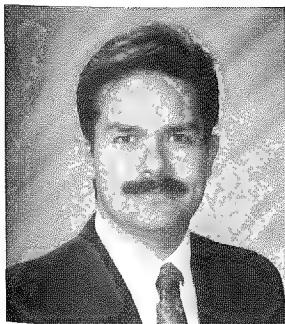

Believe in yourself, trust in yourself, and love yourself. Once you can accomplish this, you can then believe, trust, and love others. Take the time to help those in need; respect the feelings and opinions of others. Understand that critical feedback about oneself can help make a better person of you. Don't make the same mistake twice - learn from your failures and move on.

I am happy that you've made it this far but saddened because "parting is such sweet sorrow." But I have faith in you and I'll always be proud to state that you were a student at Bulkeley High School and that you graduated from the Class of 1995.

Good luck and best wishes to all of you. May you reach impossible dreams and attain peace of mind.

Your Eternal Friend,

Mr. P. Stringer

I sit here remembering the way I smiled when you came home from work or when you would wrestle Michelle and I down because we would tickle you. The way you looked at me when you were disappointed that I was bad at school. I remember being a brat and whenever daddy's little girl wanted something she had to get it. You were always there to give me anything I wanted. The Pac-Man game you looked so hard for and couldn't find in any toy store, Papi I remember all of this and more and I cry. Why did you have to leave. I want you to know that I love and miss you. I will forget or replace you. Papi Chavo, you and I will never be apart.

I Love You,
Ju
